

Medical Translation

We are able to provide accurate and reliable medical translation services thanks largely to the physicians, pharmacologists, geneticists, and other medical experts who translate for us. The texts translated by these healthcare professionals are then edited and proofread by linguists to ensure fluency and consistency. The medical translations we have successfully accomplished so far range from prescriptions to medical articles and include drug patents, informed consent forms, patient reports, psychiatry textbooks, multimedia medical applications, medical device user interfaces, handbooks, help content, medical equipment instruction manuals, brochures and software and medical terminology glossaries. We will be pleased to meet your medical translation and localization needs. You can contact us here.
